

13830476 READY TO POP BABY SHOWER CHARADES GAME

HOW TO PLAY:

Divide the players into two teams. Teams sit together, on separate sides of an open playing area. Make sure you have a large open area since your guests will likely be moving around as they attempt to act out clues.

Remind each team that they will have a limited amount of time each round (usually 1 minute). The other team will be in charge of the timer for each round. Each team will choose one player to draw a card and act out the word on the card.

No words may be spoken or the team is disqualified for that round.

Actors may make gestures, motions, or any other movement that can help their team to guess what is on the card. Decide whether or not you are going to allow the actor to use props.

While the player is acting, his or her team should shout out their guesses. There is no penalty for wrong guesses, so encourage your team to keep guessing. If a team correctly guesses the word before the time runs out, that team gets to keep that card.

Play then moves on to the other team. This continues until all cards have been guessed or until you all decide to end the game. The team with the most cards wins.

You'll find charades to be a fun and inexpensive way to spend an evening with friends and family.
